VACATION SEASON IS AT HIGH TIDE.

Mountain Resorts Find Accommodations Taxed to the Limit.

CAMPERS ARE OUT IN FORCE

Believed That Present Summer Will Mark the Most Prosperous Season Ever Known at Ohiopyle and Killbuck Park.

The annual vacation season is at its height just now and the mountain resorts east of here are taxed to their utmost capacity. The present season will probably be the most prosperous that either Ohiopyle or Killbuck park have ever known. Despite the fact that the hotels are taxed to their utmost capacity, the hills are dotted with campers, located along the Youghiogheny river and its tributaries. The campers seem about equally divided between the upper Youghiogheny and Indian creek. Along the entire length of the Indian Creek Valley railroad are located camping parties from this section while at Guard, Md., on the Confluence and Oakland branch of the Baltimore & Ohio, there are no less than 30 camps, most of them from this or adjoining counties.

At the Ohiopyle House, Proprietor Harry Marietta is having a prosperous summer season. The house is full of summer boarders and besides is the headquarters of the Western Maryland engineers and contractors. The Ohiopyle House is the most commodious and best equipped hotel in the mountains outside of the Summit and the excellent service being given by Mr. Marietta since he took charge has won much praise. Vacation and hunting parties are booked up through August, September and October.

The past two weeks have been the busiest the Ohiopyle has enjoyed since Manager Charles H. Fox assumed charge five seasons ago. Mr. Fox has succeeded in building up a splendid patronage. Just now the Ohiopyle has a waiting list and during the past two weeks it has been necessary to turn business away.

The bathing at Ohiopyle is fast gaining in popularity. One day last week no less than 80 persons were in the river at one time. The bed of the stream is rock, with a smooth as a dancing floor. The bathing at Ohiopyle is the best to be found in this section.

Killbuck Inn, under the excellent management of Miss M. E. Young, is more popular than ever. There is no question but that before next season an addition must be built to the present structure. It is crowded with regular boarders and those who make week-end trips to the Indian Creek valley.

Tonight Logan Run will be the host at a big spaghetti supper which will be served at Braddock's Rest Club, in the Killbuck grounds at Ohiopyle. "Black Hand" Mike Donadio will prepare the Italian delicacy, which will be accompanied by spring chicken and other delicacies.

Friday night G. L. Pfordt of Steubenville, O., who with Mrs. Pfordt is stopping at Killbuck Inn, will give a dance, followed by a corn roast. Killbuck's orchestra has been engaged to furnish music.

This year people of this section are going to the mountains in preference to visiting seaside resorts. Either they are guests at the hotels or are in camp. Cottages are particularly popular this year, one feature, however, that is conspicuous for its absence at Ohiopyle.

The following guests are registered at Killbuck Inn:

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Pfardt, Steubenville, O.; Miss M. E. Pfardt and Miss M. A. Gloom, Pittsburgh; J. E. Williams, Carnegie, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Evans, Pittsburgh; Mrs. J. C. Little, C. B. McNeely, P. G. Peters, McKeesport, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McKelmo, Miss Ethel C. Hampton, Pittsburgh; E. E. Peters and two sons, McKeesport; Mrs. Collins, Miss Nora Collins, Columbus, O.; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lyon, Miss Ephronette, Miss Bullock, J. B. Lyon, L. T. Lyon, P. L. Lyon, Pittsburgh; Mrs. H. L. Robinson, Uniontown; Miss Agnes Robinson, Uniontown; Miss Jeanne Nelson, Miss Olive Heron, Pittsburgh.

Will Entertain Bachelors' Club. Robert Werner will entertain the City Bachelors' Club Friday evening, August 25, at his home on Sixth street, West Side. The club is composed of nine members and a rule of the club is that following his marriage, each member is to banquet the club. Mr. Werner recently became a bachelor.

Wishart's Condition Improved. The condition of William Wishart, Union Supply store manager at Trout, who was taken suddenly ill last week, improves very slowly.

CONNELLVILLE LOOKED GOOD TO THE VISITING BUSINESS MEN.

Pittsburg Party Which Sized Up Center of Coke Region Yesterday Were Well Pleased.

The party of Pittsburg business men who visited Connellville yesterday to investigate its advantages as a manufacturing city left last evening well pleased with their trip. The party was composed of C. F. Arratt, A. E. Arratt, A. H. Cline, Jr., and J. G. Ford. They were shown over town by a delegation of the Chamber of Commerce.

Yesterday afternoon Secretary J. Fred Kurtz took the party over the residential section of the town and gave them an opportunity to form an opinion from every angle. Before leaving they expressed great

1,000 Americans Waiting in Liverpool

United Press Telegram.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Aug. 16.—More than 1,000 anxious Americans are being cared for in the local hotels at the expense of the steamship companies, and their number is being increased daily as the result of the strike or lock-out along the docks.

They are first cabin passengers, anxious to return home from their holidays abroad. The steamers, Coronia, Vreeland and Celtic are all tied up in the harbor, and it is officially stated that the companies do not know when they will be able to sail for America.

Bullets brought quiet and order in this city early today. The mobs of hoodlums who over-ran the "lower sections" and gave battle to the police were cowed by bullets from the infantry and sword thrusts from the cavalry. Two rioters were killed, which had a quieting effect on the lawless element, although at daylight the crowds had not entirely dispersed. Blame for the lawlessness is not charged to the strikers by the authorities.

Thousands of freight handlers are here today awaiting the general strike order to walk out.

English Cabinet Discusses Strike

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 16.—Premier Asquith early today called the cabinet into extraordinary session to discuss the industrial crisis, at the request of the officials of the Board of Trade, who failed in their effort to bring the railway managers and their employees together.

It is unofficially stated that if the cabinet finds no plan for averting a general railroad strike, the government will summon the Royal Engineers and the Army service corps to work the railroads. It is said that the War Office has already prepared for such an order.

While England is apparently on the eve of an industrial revolution, the effects of which upon commerce and business are beyond calculation, King George is away on a three days' hunting trip on the Yorkshire moors. He is the guest of the Duke of Devonshire, and has already bagged 3,170 grouse.

The stock market is showing the effects of the trouble and is very weak.

Railroad Men are Paid Today

The Baltimore & Ohio pay checks are being issued today to the employees of the Connellville and Pittsburgh divisions. There was the usual monthly rush to have checks cashed and although business has not been particularly brisk this summer some of the men made good time and their checks were proportionately large.

The checks were expected yesterday, usually arriving on the fifteenth of the month, but it was not until this morning that they arrived and Agent W. H. Towse began passing them out.

Dates Were Mixed for Church Picnics

In the Courier yesterday it was stated that the Baptist church picnic to Killbuck park would be on Friday of this week and that the Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Protestant churches would hold their combined picnic on Thursday.

The days should just be reversed. The Baptist picnic will be on Thursday and the Methodist Protestant and the Methodist Episcopal churches will have their outing up the Indian Creek valley on Friday.

WM. H. RUPPLE OUT FOR JUDGE.

Well Known Somerset Attorney Is Seeking the Nomination

ON THREE PARTY TICKETS

Receives Petitions From Voters Requesting Him to Make the Race—J. A. Berkey, the Only Other Candidate So Far Announced.

A sensation was created in Somerset county politics this morning when William A. Rupple, a prominent member of the Somerset county bar, announced his candidacy for the common pleas bench in Somerset county on the Democratic, Republican and Prohibition tickets. Petitions signed by over 200 voters in each of these three parties were presented to Attorney Rupple on Monday asking him to become a candidate for the bench and last evening he gave his consent. This morning a formal announcement of his candidacy was made.

Attorney Rupple will be the opponent of J. A. Berkey, former Commissioner of Banking in Pennsylvania, and who has been prominent in State politics for a number of years, the only candidate up to this morning announced on the Republican ticket. Judge Francis J. Koser has not announced whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election. He was elected on the Republican ticket ten years ago, being the first judge to serve in Somerset county as a separate district.

Attorney Rupple is widely known in Somerset county where his law practice has been extensive. He is a man of large means and is conceded to be a formidable opponent in politics. He has always been a Democrat. The petitions asking him to come out for the nomination on the three tickets mentioned are headed by a long statement giving the reasons why the voters who sign the petitions believe it proper for him to be a candidate on the three tickets. They cite the fact that President Taft made Associate Justice White Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court despite the fact that he is a Democrat and further state that the Governors of many states have ignored politics in their selections for the judiciary. The petitioners state that politics and the bench should be separated; that a condition in that respect has arisen that is intolerable and that the spirit of the time is along the lines they suggest.

Warrants Out for Lynchers

United Press Telegram.

COATESVILLE, Pa., Aug. 16.—With one man in jail and warrants for nine others whose names are kept secret on route here from West Chester the town people are apprehensive of trouble when the State police round up the men accused of aiding in the lynching of the negro, Zach Walker, last Sunday.

It had been planned to make no arrests until after the funeral of Policeman Rice tomorrow but Assistant District Attorney Ganthrop ordered Kennedy Boyd, a Uniontown, arrested on the charge of having been one of the mob leaders, alleged that he was preparing to leave town. As soon as the other arrests are made the men will be taken to West Chester to prevent any attempt at rescue.

Going to Killbuck. The Young Quartette is going to Killbuck on Sunday.

A Reunion In The Philippines

Col. A. H. Anderson, Past Commander-in-Chief, Army of the Philippines, returned this morning to his home in Washington, Pa., from the convention just held at Detroit, Mich. One of the important steps taken by the convention was to hold the next annual convention in Manila, provided the arrangements can be made with the United States government for the transportation of the veterans who formerly fought in the Philippines, upon the government transports.

There is not, however, much apprehension on the part of the government that it will be able to transport between America and Manila, carrying supplies for the Army and the Civil government. There are a certain number of army officers and government employees who use these transports, but as a general rule there is a great deal of space that could be given over to the veterans. A matter of importance is, that the positions taken by the different volunteer regiments in the various engagements be marked, although not of immediate importance, yet it is something that should be done while in the memory of the survivors. It is thought that a reunion in Manila will be the cause of a large number of the Army of the Philippines members returning to see the great changes that have been wrought since the first occupation by the American army.

Col. Anderson was given a vote of thanks for his able administration as Commander-in-Chief and requested to again allow his name to be presented for the coming year, but he positively refused to do so, and Col. E. Warner Knalms, a member of Torrey's Rough Riders, and later a member of the Third artillery which, armed as volunteers, accompanied the volunteer regiments in the Molokai campaign, was elected Commander-in-Chief for the ensuing year.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Matthews and daughters, Misses Myrtle and Jennie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews and daughter of Uniontown, arrived in Connellville last night from a two weeks' automobile trip to Niagara Falls, Canada, Buffalo, Chautauque, Cambridge Springs and other points of interest.

They report a very delightful trip. The roads were fine, especially in New York State. They remained in Connellville over night as the guests of Squire and Mrs. P. M. Buttmore of the West Side. Mrs. Matthews is a sister of Mrs. Buttmore.

HOPWOOD LOSES INDEX FINGER WHEN FIRE WAGON CATCHES IT.

Was Working on the Wagon as It Was Backed Out of the Factory on West Side Last Night.

M. O. Hopwood lost the index finger and had his left hand frightfully torn last evening while assisting to back the fire wagon out of the factory of the S. Crossland Carriage & Wagon Company on the West Side. Hopwood was under the wagon as they started to back it out of the building. Fearful one of the wheels would foul the side of the door, he grasped the rear handle and was pulling himself up when his hand was caught between the wagon and the door.

Before the team could be stopped the index finger of the left hand had been so badly torn it had to be ampu-

CANNONADED WITH HEADS OF CABBAGE.

Newberg, the Huckster, Meets Up With Nigger Guerillas.

PAYSASKY AND WISABOSKY

Were on the Firing Line With Joe Walker and Paul Krick and a Merry Fight It Was While It Lasted—Indemnity Paid in Court.

Paul Krick, Joe Walker, Thomas Paysasky, Charles Reybeck, John Wisabosky, all of Nigger Hill, were arrested yesterday by Constable B. Rottler on a charge of assault made by Jacob Newberg, a local huckster. They were given a hearing last night before Squire P. M. Buttmore of the West Side. At the hearing it was learned that Thomas Paysasky and Charles Reybeck were the principal leaders in the assault.

The trouble occurred on last Thursday when Newberg was returning from a trip through the country. He alleged that at Davidson he left his wagon and went to a pump for a drink. During his absence Paysasky, he alleged, went to the wagon and took a head of cabbage which he tried to sell to a small girl. The boys claimed they only wanted to have a little fun with Newberg. Newberg thought they were carrying their fun a little too far and became very angry with the boys. One word brought on another and Newberg, it was alleged, finally called the boys names, which they wouldn't stand for.

The boys thereupon opened up a cannonade of cabbage heads from the wagon of Newberg, the huckster. Newberg held his ground bravely for a while and then retreated behind his wagon. Cabbage heads flew in all directions until the ammunition ran out and then the boys fell back behind the houses and Newberg drove off minus most of the cabbage, and a very late huckster. In the Squire's office the boys paid the costs and the damage done to Newberg's stock.

May Compromise on Statehood Bill

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The House committee on territories today appointed a committee of five to confer with the Senate territorial committee on the New Mexico and Arizona Statehood situation with a view to writing a compromise measure which could be adopted by both houses and be signed by President Taft.

The majority sentiment of the House committee was in favor of passing the present measure, with the recall of judges included, over President Taft's veto, but wishing to assure Arizona and New Mexico of Statehood at the present session it was finally decided to seek a conference looking to a compromise.

An All Day Meeting. Mrs. L. S. Michael was in Uniontown yesterday attending an all day meeting of the Uniontown W. C. T. U. REARREST MANGUSO; IS LATER RELEASED.

District Attorney Henderson Finally Decides to Accept Light Bail.

COUNCILMAN BRANT IS IRATE

Expresses Himself in Forceful Terms Over Bond Required For Assailant and Hikes to Uniontown to Take the Matter Up.

Salvatore Manguso, the Italian who murderously assaulted Councilman S. E. Brant about two weeks ago, was rearrested yesterday afternoon following his release by Justice of the Peace W. P. Clark under $600 bail on two counts, but was later discharged from custody. Councilman Samuel E. Brant's ire was aroused when only a light bond was asked by the Squire. He immediately took the matter up with the District Attorney's office in Uniontown. Orders were received to have the Italian rearrested and a new information was sworn to before Justice of the Peace P. M. Buttmore. Constable R. E. Stillwagon served the warrant and took the man to City Hall. His attorneys, L. B. Brownfield and J. Kirk Renner, immediately got in touch with the District Attorney and orders were issued to discharge the prisoner, it being decided that the $600 bail for felonious assault was sufficient. Guy Corrado is Manguso's bondsman.

This action did not satisfy the First ward Councilman, who started to make out an information charging surety of the peace. He refused to admit, however, that he was afraid of Manguso and Squire Buttmore refused to issue the papers. Manguso is under bail to appear in court and answer charges of felonious cutting and open lawlessness. The bond was $500 on the first count and $100 on the second.

Councilman Brant's anger has not yet been appeased and this morning he went to Uniontown for the purpose of personally interviewing the District Attorney.

Stonemasons Face Burgess J. L. Evans

This morning's session of police court developed a gathering of masons—not the fraternal kind, however. It was a delegation of builders which faced Burgess J. L. Evans, a Mason himself.

Peter Brock, a stonemason, board of a freight train at o'clock last evening and wanted to get off at Ohiopyle. The train did not stop, however, and Peter was brought to Connellville, where Officer T. C. Phelan arrested him for trainriding. He was discharged with a warning to stay off freight trains in the future.

Charles Moore of Lonshearing, likewise a stonemason, was charged with being drunk and drew 45 hours. His effort to post his wife as a forfeit until pay day was declined. John Hoover, now living at Somerset and a carpenter by trade, denied being drunk yesterday afternoon when found at City Hall. He said he was sick and looked the part. He was discharged.

Geo. Shoenberger is Dead, Aged 50

George Shoenberger, aged 50 years, a former well known resident of Connellville, died Monday at his late home at Braddock, following a lingering illness of tuberculosis. Deceased was a son of the late Thomas and Mary Shoenberger of Connellville. He was born in Connellville and resided here up until about four years ago when with his family he went to Braddock to reside. He married Miss Mary Dunlap of Connellville, who with the following children survive: Mrs. Jacob Dull of Jones Mills; George Jr., Agnes, Mary Jean, Harriet and Margaret Shoenberger, all at home. He is also survived by the following brothers: Oscar, Frank and Alex Shoenberger, all of town.

The body will be brought here tomorrow afternoon on the 2:45 train and will be removed to Hill Grove cemetery for interment by Funeral Director J. E. Sims.

Cookery Points

Frozen Ginger Pudding.
A pudding served in the German household is a frozen ginger pudding. This is made by mixing a custard of one quart of milk and three well beaten eggs and three tablespoonsful of sugar. This is put into the refrigerator until thoroughly cooled and then one quart of whipped cream flavored with a few drops of vanilla is added, together with one-half pint of preserved ginger and one-half pint of the syrup in which it is preserved. The ginger should be sliced very thin or chopped fine. Pour the whole into a freezer and when about half frozen add three eighths of a pound of almond macaroons which have been rolled fine and a little candied orange peel. Freeze this until it is firm and creamy. This is very delicious, and some people add a cupful of orange pulp cut into small pieces.

Preparing Grapefruit.
Take special pains in preparing grapefruit for the breakfast table at this time of the year. To begin with, take care in selecting the fruit, which, to be good, should be heavy, firm and thin skinned. Dark spots on the surface are said to denote a superior fruit. To make it especially tempting serve with clean, finely chopped ice. Partly fill with the ice one of the long stemmed grapefruit glasses, or, if you do not possess these glasses, any dainty glass bowl will do. Then place on this bed of ice a glass cup filled with grapefruit pulp. If you choose to serve the grapefruit without pulp, it is served in small hours before serving to give the sugar and fruit time to assimilate.

Current Macaroons.
Half a pound of almonds, one and a half ounces of bitter almonds, one pound of sugar, three whites of eggs, two ounces of currants. Blanch the almonds and cut them into small dice. After cutting the bitter almonds sprinkle them with sugar and brown them slightly in the oven. Mix sweet and bitter almonds and sugar together, add the currants and the whites of eggs gradually until the whole is sufficiently moistened to drop from the spoon to a baking tin, which must be covered with water or white paper (not buttered), touch the surface of each one lightly with a brush previously dipped in cold water and bake in a slow oven until crisp.

Fried Chicken a la Maryland.
Joint a tender chicken as for fricassee. Wash and wipe perfectly dry. Dip each piece in beaten egg, then roll in salted and peppered cracker dust for an hour. Have plenty of clean dripping or other fat in a deep frying pan and bring slowly to the bubbling point. Lay in the chicken, carefully and fry on both sides to a fine brown. Do not put too many pieces in at a time, or all sides of each will not be done evenly. Fry long enough to make sure the thickest pieces are done all through.

Potatoes a la Princess.
Take one pound of plainly boiled potatoes and rub them through a fine sieve into a bowl. Add one egg and a half tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of grated cheese, two raw yolks of eggs, a pinch of salt and pepper, and make into little rolls about two and a half inches long and three-quarters of an inch in diameter, using a little flour as for rolling paste; put these on a well buttered baking tin and brush over with beaten up egg, mark with a knife and bake a nice brown color in the oven.

Coffee Custard Frappe.
Two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Beat well together. Put a cupful of coffee and the same of milk into a double boiler. When it nears the boiling point pour it over the beaten eggs, flour, etc., and mix well. Return to the boiler and cook until it is like thick cream. Pour into small cups or glasses to cool. Serve ice cold with whipped cream. Should the coffee flavor not be pleasing, substitute a second cup of milk for it. Flavor with any extract you like.

Angel Cakes.
Sift together several times half a cup of fine granulated sugar, half a cup of pastry flour, half a level teaspoon of cream tartar, beat whites of four eggs till stiff and dry, then gradually mix in the sugar and flour. Flavor with half a teaspoon of almond, rose or vanilla; drop with a teaspoon on paper covered with buttered paper an inch or two apart; sprinkle with sugar, white or pink, and bake in a moderate oven ten or fifteen minutes; will make two dozen.

Cherry Pie.
Fill a fairly rich crust not quite full with stoned ripe cherries, sprinkle evenly over them a heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch, or a tablespoonful if they are very juicy; add a teaspoonful of sugar and dot with small pieces of butter. Cover with paste, wet the edges of the upper and under crusts, press well together, brush over with well beaten egg, bake in a hot oven till ready. Dust over with fine sugar.

ACCUSES CHIEF.

Fire Chief at Donors Goes After Chief of Police.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 16.—Sensational charges by Fire Chief J. E. McCune of Donors against Chief of Police Robert Sickels and other members of the police force of the down river town have thrown the town into a state of commotion and have prompted an investigation into the alleged irregularity in the police department by the borough council. Fire Chief McCune's charges are explicit and particular and are embodied in a statement which he read publicly before the borough council in which he offered to prove every charge he made and if necessary to give evidence of additional irregularities.

McCune charges gross neglect of duty, extortion, receiving of bribes, drunkenness, slander, aiding a prisoner to escape, forcible entry and protection of gamblers and gambling houses and speakings. The fire chief is backed up in his charges by Patrolman I. J. Ritchie. McCune stated that he had been gathering complaints made to him by prominent citizens.

The presentation of the charges created a turmoil in the meeting of the council, which immediately delegated the police committee to make a rigid investigation. Last week a partial hearing was heard and numerous witnesses called to substantiate McCune's assertions. Chief of Police Sickels has entered an emphatic denial.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G., AUG. 16, 1911.

THE UNPRACTICABLE BUT PERFECT PERKINS.

In these days of strenuous Trust-busting and grandstand plays for political position, without any serious regard for the interests of the Common People, but only with an eye single to their votes, an address of George W. Perkins, former partner of J. Pierpont Morgan, a self-confessed and shameless representative of the wicked but wonderful Money Devil, the sinister influence that has been the backbone of this nation's wonderful development and singular prosperity, this chief sin against the personally perfect but essentially Feeblest Prophet of the Platte, recently presented to the Michigan College of Mines some thoughts worthy of the serious consideration of the country as well as the students.
"Wanted: A Constructive National Policy," was the subject assigned the perverso and pestilential Perkins, and this is the way he treated it:

It is a matter of common knowledge among all people that the National Congress enact laws, that our executive officers are sworn to enforce such laws and that our district courts are sworn to interpret those laws in case of differences. It is likewise a matter of common knowledge that 20 or more years ago the National Congress passed a law that was intended to put barriers in the way of plans that business men were undertaking for the further uplifting and extension of trade and commerce in the United States—plans that, in the judgment of these men, were essential to the greatest good of the greatest number. It is a matter of common knowledge that the enforcement of this law was almost, if not quite,
neglected for a number of years, during which period business men were allowed to proceed with their plans. It is a matter of common knowledge that during the last eight or ten years some of our executive officers have been in honor bound to enforce the laws as they then had endeavored to enforce this law, and while doing so studying its effect and refining its operation, have raised the question as to whether it should not be amended.

While many of our members of Congress have been loudly calling for a literal enforcement of this law by the executive, our people have known that what they were suffering from were evil practices by large corporations, and that one of the chief reasons why the practices were evil was because the corporations were very large.
At last this question reached our Supreme Court, and that court has held that a company is not necessarily illegal because it is large.

While our executive officers have been in the attitude of who to do, and while our business men are almost unanimous in their determination to take up a study of the question in such a way as to ascertain whether there is anything good and worth while in the business men's contention, Congress has steadily called for the destruction of our great business enterprises. It has appropriated money to find out what crimes these concerns have committed and what evil practices they have indulged in, but so far as common knowledge goes it has not taken one step to ascertain what good these concerns have accomplished and whether or not there is anything of benefit and value in them that should be preserved. It is as though it were to be, "Millions for destruction, but not one cent for construction."

There is no question that evil practices have been indulged in by corporate life. Men have done things that they should not have done, and it is the duty of State and Federal Government officials to investigate and find out what these evil practices are, that they may be eradicated. On the other hand, exactly a man in public life has had the courage to say over a word by way of excuse for the existence of large business concerns, and so a plain business man may perhaps be excused for saying that there are at least a few self-evident advantages that could be used as excuses for the existence of some of our so-called trusts, and which might be fair questions for investigation by our politicians. For instance, a Congressional committee might find it of advantage to the people to inquire:

1. Have the cost of articles made by the so-called trusts increased or decreased?

2. Have wages increased or decreased?

3. Has labor been more steadily employed and better housed—more generally employed and better satisfied?

4. Have there been fewer failures in the lines of business than in the past?

5. Have the so-called trusts increased or decreased our foreign trade business?

6. Have the so-called trusts devised ways and means and provided the capital for saving and utilizing waste products which could not have been done by smaller concerns?

7. Is the tendency to have the ownership of these large companies, and the profits made by them enjoyed by a few men or by many men? Is the tendency to have these corporations in the future create, by their profits, large fortunes for a few men, as was the case in partnership under competitive methods, or is the tendency to distribute such profits more generally among the people?

The civilized world is witnessing the spectacle of our holding an extra session of Congress to enact a policy of retrenchment, of our negotiating peace treaties with European powers, and at the same time of our Congress calling loudly on our Attorney General to force our business men to adopt ruthless, competitive methods. In other words, it seems we can have a constitution of States that we can have peace for peace with foreign powers; we can have reciprocity with our neighbors, we can have church unity, but it is unlawful, unholy, to have peace in the business world. Has the height of absurdity at last been reached?

Congress has ignored every suggestion by those who, by the way, by Wilson—yes, even by some of its own members—looking toward any method that would preserve any good there is, any benefit or advantage there is to the people in large business undertakings, and has seemed content to let the country drift toward business chaos.

What has given us this sweatshop?
Competition.
What throws labor out of employment? Competition.
What causes low wages? Competition.

What brings panic and failure?
Competition.
What is our Congress at this moment calling loudly on our Attorney General to enforce even to the door of the jail? Competition.

The Congressman who stands for a literal enforcement of the Sherman act stands for the sweatshop and child labor. Competition produces the two extremes—millionaires and paupers—while co-operation looks toward more stable conditions and a more equal distribution of wealth. This blessed country of ours is suffering from a deluge of politicians and a dearth of statesmen. We must give better men to our public life. We business men have a fault in many things, but in none more than in our almost utter neglect of our public duty. The promoter of is ours, but what we want at the moment is a Moses to lead us out of the wilderness.

The unperturbed but very practical Perkins concludes with a sane and sensible plan to the people. He cleverly paraphrases the immortal Declaration of Independence in this language:

We, the business men of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, to establish justice, insure commercial defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of co-operation to ourselves and to our posterity, do declare that ruthless competitive methods are no longer the best good of the greatest number, and must therefore be abandoned.
In conclusion, he very sensibly says that the time has now come when we are obliged to stop and fight the matter out. The question is, Shall American business men be forced to continue under the old and utterly ruthless competitive methods, or shall they be allowed to go forward, keeping pace with the spirit of progress and securing for all the benefits of co-operation? And so this Philosopher of Finance, this wicked Stanleyized Perkins, this Wicked Partner of Wealth, makes the following very interesting suggestion:

Our National Government, first undertook the supervision of our Hinter, then it undertook the supervision of our banks; then it undertook the supervision of our railroads. Why not at least try to undertake the supervision of our big business concerns before we smash them to pieces? Why not try to regulate before we smuggly interfere? What a situation imperatively requires in a constructive national policy in commercial affairs. Any man who is above petty prejudices and political party lines knows, deep down in his mind, that what this country needs today is Nationalism, and we will have this when we have more statesmanlike representatives in our Congress.

It might be worthy of note that there is a very cheerful prospect of getting such a Congress at the next election using to the strikingly assinine manner in which the Democratic House has trifled with the Tariff and thereby put the brakes upon returning prosperity.

We are inclined to think that it is entirely safe to invite Perkins to perk up.

The Cheat river promises to cheat some capital unless the dollars get closer together.

Garphago should be disposed of, but it should not be burned in the back yard to the annoyance and possibly the physical detriment of the neighbors.
A word to the wise ought to be sufficient.

Pittsburg's Government by Commission seems to have a strangle hold on the dump. If so, it will not have lived in vain.

The Hon. Bill Finck is still for the Initiated in the Referendum and the Recall. Somebody ought to present him with a copy of Senator Rutherford's speech. The reformer notions of disposed bones are open to strong suspicion.

Oklahoma has a race war on its hands. The Referendum and Recall do not cure all the ills of State.

Admiral Togo informs a waiting world that his name means the Peaceful Man of the East. The interpretation sounds pretty good, but we have a very vivid recollection of the fact that it failed to apply to Russia upon a certain strenuous occasion on the high seas.

Senator Oliver is always on the job
when the iron and steel interests are attacked at Washington. The Tariff is the Junior Senator's specialty.

MY FACE WAS ALL BROKEN OUT

And So Disfiguring! Eruption Started with a Pimple. Came in Blotches, Causing Great Pain. Spread Rapidly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Blotches Disappeared.

"My trouble started with a pimple on my nose, which I picked, and it rapidly spread all over my face, the eruption
coming in blotches,
and causing great pain
and discomfort. My face was all broken out,
and I was dreadfully embarrassed. I was doctoring for six months without the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I was disappointed. Then I saw the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised, so I decided to try it. I would try them, which I did. After using the Cuticura Soap and one box of the wonderful Cuticura Ointment, every one of my friends noticed the improvement. I am delighted to say the blotches have all disappeared, and I am completely cured through the use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment.
I take great pleasure in recommending them to all my friends." (Signed) Miss Nellie Lester, 615 Ninth Ave., New York City,

"For more than a generation warm baths
with Cuticura Soap and gentle applications

NEARLY ALL TEACHERS SIGN UP

For Another Year's Work—Prof. Stevens Resigns, Having Been Elected to a Better Position in Greensburg—Other Notes.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Aug. 16.—When the School Board met this week there was not a great deal of business transacted, more than the reports from the teachers who were elected sometime ago and who were asked to send their acceptance to Secretary O. L. Hess by August 15. All the teachers sent in their acceptance except Miss Myrtle Horbert, who is in Germany, and Miss Vivian Chalfant, who is visiting a sister in Seattle, Wash. She is reported to be ill with rheumatism, but she is expected to be in Scotland in time for the opening of school. The secretary was instructed to get in communication with Miss Chalfant on this matter.

Clarence E. Stephens, who has taught music in the Scottdale schools for some years, sent in his resignation, stating that he had found a better paying position in the Greensburg schools since the board elected him here. The board accepted Mr. Stephens' resignation, but elected no one to take his place, as there was no applicant forward. Miss Irene Howers, who was elected again this year in East Huntingdon township, was an applicant at the same time Mr. Stephens was applying for this place here again this year.

The salaries of Principal Landis Tanager and the janitors, and the current bills were ordered paid. Former Tax Collector S. H. McMillan reported $207.50 school taxes collected and paid to the treasurer since the last meeting. The report was accepted and ordered filed.

Treasurer Chas. S. Hall presented his bond for $20,000, guaranteed by the National Surety Company, who are represented in Scottdale by Folk & Kent. The Broadway National Bank, the school depository, presented a bond for $25,000 with the directors of the sureties, and School Tax Collector W. S. Wiley a bond was also presented, it being for $20,000 secured by real estate and coal land stock. The bonds were all prepared by the Board's attorney, C. H. Heller.

The Buildings and Grounds committee reported that new floors have been placed in the Pittsburgh street building and also that drinking fountains have been installed and repairs made to their ovens and closets. Contractor W. A. Gordon has been engaged to give the interior a coat of Mellotone paint. The report of the committee was approved.

H. I. Randle and J. S. Kuhns, janitors at the Pittsburgh and Chestnut street buildings, were instructed to report for duty on Wednesday, there being no insurance on the contents of the High School building. The board decided that these should be insured for $1,000. This covers the furniture, equipment, books, etc., which probably represent $4,000 in value. The members of the board who were present were President R. P. Porey, J. L. Reynolds, J. O. Lundenberger, D. L. Sherrick, J. R. Loucks, J. P. Owens and Secretary O. L. Hess.

Case Continued.
The charges against a number of boys from West Overton which were to have been heard last evening by Justice of the Peace C. H. Verry have been held up for sometime. The affair was one in which a lot of boys had been charged with throwing stones and hitting a seven-year-old son of Frank Rollins over the eye, making a very ugly wound. The boy's condition was serious yesterday and as he could not appear the Justice postponed the hearing indefinitely to see what the result of the blow will be. The boys about West Overton are great ones for throwing stones and have been in trouble on this score before.

An Informal Stag.
F. E. Weidell entertained at an informal stag party at his home last night and about a score of friends were present and spent a pleasant evening in games, music and the enjoyment of a fine luncheon. A feature of the evening was the appearance of what has been christened the B. C. Frotts' Royal Neatland Band composed of R. B. Barkell, C. B. Newcomer, Walter J. Jones and R. C. Crago. And they made some music let us believe. Out of town guests were J. D. Armstrong and E. E. Ober of Uniontown.

Picnic on Saturday.
The Jacob Creek Sunday School will hold their annual outing at Oakford Park, on Saturday, and anticipate a large attendance.

Got His Cow.
It was a Hungarian resident of Valley who mistook his cow for a week as told in The Courier yesterday. The story remained him of this and he walked the half mile over to Scottdale and secured the cow from the Chief of Police Frank McGudden.

OWENSDALE.

Special to The Courier.
OWENSDALE, Aug. 16.—The Jacob Creek Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will hold their annual picnic Saturday at Oakford park. Special cars will leave Meadow Mills at 8 o'clock sharp. There will be a large crowd in attendance as the day is most convenient for the mill workers. Tickets can be secured from H. H. Nowlingham, A. B. Taylor or Jacob Koser and can also be secured at the car before leaving.

Mrs. Chapman Klug was shopping at Scottdale yesterday afternoon. Roy Farner was attending to matters of business at Scottdale yesterday afternoon.

H. Kridel of Everson, has moved to the Dull homestead. Allen Shallenberger and daughter, Miss Edna, were calling at Scottdale yesterday afternoon.

Miss Eunice Evans of Connellsville, was here for a short time yesterday morning. Edward Schroyer of Mt. Pleasant was visiting here yesterday.

Mrs. H. B. Robbins and Mrs. Carlo Ridenour were shopping at Scottdale yesterday.

Headmaster Charles Crossen has secured permission of the authorities of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to take the curve out of the public road between the Clinton houses and the Everson bottoms. He will commence on the work shortly. This will be a needed improvement to that part of the road.

There are 23 miles 600 feet of roads in Upper Tyrone township and the big steam road roller and scraper, recently purchased by the township, has gone over almost all of this and has brought the roads into excellent condition. The roller is now cleaning the ditches at the same time. When the ditches were cleaned by hand, it was not safe for a vehicle to try to go into them in passing another vehicle but the new manner of cleaning them with the roller scraper eliminates this danger.

Almost all the wooden bridges in the township have been torn away and replaced with vitrified pipe. There are but four small wooden bridges in the township and these are doomed to go. The Galley Run bridge between Morgan and Brown Ford proved to be a great improvement to that part of the road as it straightened out the approaches in a considerable extent. The small bridge at the base ball park was another excellent improvement.

At the beginning of this year's work it was decided to begin on the outlying country roads and give the farmer the best of the argument as the main roads were in fairly good condition and now Upper Tyrone township has the best roads in Fayette or Westmoreland counties, having the State macadamized roads.

There has been some friction between several fast trippers and the roadmasters as to the purchasing of the steam road roller and the roller scraper, they claiming that the roller would prove worthless. On the contrary, it has proven to be of greater benefit than was claimed for it.

Visiting roadmasters from other townships have favorably commented upon the excellent condition of the township roads.

The Morgan team will play the Scottdale Keystone at Scottdale this evening and will play the fast Banning team at Banning Saturday afternoon.

TOTH LEAVES FOR AUSTRIA.

Man Who Spent Half of Life in Prison Returns to Native Heath.

Andrew Toth, the aged foreigner, who was pardoned recently and released from the Western Pennsylvania penitentiary, after serving 29 years of a life sentence for the alleged killing of a fellow workman, will leave this evening from Braddock station of the Pennsylvania railroad for New York. He is on his way to Austria-Hungary, where he will spend the remainder of his days with his wife, whom he has not seen for 27 years.

Toth was originally convicted of first degree murder, but was reprieved. He was pardoned a short time ago when a confusion concerning him was received from the old country. He was given a pension of $10 a month by Andrew Carnegie, with the provision that he return to his wife in Austria-Hungary.

SHERIFF ARRESTED.

Westmoreland Official Charged With Letting Prisoners Escape.

GRENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Sheriff John E. Shields of Westmoreland county was arrested again yesterday. Shortly after noon Constable P. J. McDougall connected with Justice of the Peace H. L. McNeeroff's office of Irwin, Pa., arrested him on two informations made by Deputy Constable C. A. Livingston, one of the police officers of the large coal companies here, in which he was charged with permitting prisoners to escape from the county jail, and another charging malfeasance of office.

Although bail was demanded pending a hearing before the Justice, Shields refused to give any. He held his ground and finally the constable permitted him to go on his own recognizance to appear for a hearing Thursday afternoon.

First Photo of Burning of Negro Zacharia Walker by a Mob in Coatesville, Pa., Near Philadelphia.

COATESVILLE, Pa., Aug. 16.—The burning to death of Zacharia Walker, a negro, by a mob of lynchers here has caused Governor Tener to order the State constabulary to guard the town, and efforts are being made to ascertain who were the perpetrators of the deed.

Walker shot and killed Edgar Rice, a special policeman employed by the Worth Bros' Steel Company, when caught in the act of holding up and robbing a foreigner near the works of the company. He was dragged from his cot in the Coatesville hospital, where he had been lodged under police guard, and burned by a mob a half mile from town. Coatesville is thirty-eight miles west of Philadelphia. The lynching, which is the first to happen in this State, has roused the town to a high pitch of excitement.

A START MADE

On Big Mining Town of the Crucible Steel Company.

WAYNESBURG, Aug. 16.—Work was commenced this morning on the new coal shaft for the Crucible Coal Company, near Rice's Landing. Frank J. Porey, of Brownsville, has the contract for sinking the shaft and is expected to have them done early in November.

There were over 200 men put to work this morning, a great many of them carpenters who will build the new houses for the company on the top of the hill. Sixty-four houses of the most modern type are to be built and will have all the modern conveniences, including electric light and hot and cold water. A long road has been graded from the river bank to the top of the hill for the purpose of hauling the necessary material to be used in the construction of the houses and the new company store, which will also be erected in the center of the new town.

A steam ferry is now being installed for the purpose of transferring the material from the opposite side of the river, along the Monongahela railroad. One day last week 117 cars were brought across the river in flats and these teams are now being used in the construction of the new road over the hillside to the new town. A great deal of material, such as engines and boilers are now on the opposite side of the river waiting for the completion of the steam ferry at which time they will be brought across for use at the new holdings of the Crucible company.

The Friday Construction Company has also commenced work on their part of the contract, which includes the concrete piers for the new coal tipples, ice breakers and the cribbing along the river bank. The Pennsylvania railroad engineers are still busy engaged in the neighborhood of the Crucible company's holdings, making surveys for the proposed extension of the railroad from Rice's Landing. The Penna.sylvania company has not given out any definite information as to when actual construction will be commenced, but those who are on the ground say they expect the railroad company to begin work on the extension without giving previous notice of their intentions.

The residents about that section of Greene county are taking on a new lease of life apparently, as they are not used to so much activity in the burning line. With 150 teams and more are 200 men at work it is expected that considerable work will be accomplished before cold weather sets in.

The location of the new town and coal plant of the Crucible company is on the Crago farm in Cumberland township, and is about two and one-half miles above Rice's Landing. Two main shafts for bringing out coal, and one air shaft are to be sunk by Contractor Porey. The shafts will be lined with concrete and will be among the most modern in the State when completed. The coal mined from these holdings will be shipped to the Midland steel plant, where it will be coaled, previous to use in the mills.

The Crucible company holds about 1,000 acres of coal in the immediate neighborhood of Cumberland township. About 400 men will find employment in the new mines when completed.

Tona Vita for Sick and Weary

Half sick, tired all the time, no energy or ambition, with your nerves on edge and your stomach out of order, how can you expect to get any happiness out of life when in such a miserable state?

You can't, and you won't, until you find relief from the debilitated condition that is sapping your vitality and robbing you of your strength.

Physicians know that half the population in the large cities of this country are today afflicted with nervous debility caused by the wear and tear of modern life.

A preparation has been used by European physicians to combat this nervous condition with remarkable success. A similar preparation "Tona Vita" was introduced in this country a few months ago and is making a wonderful record here. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of listless, debilitated men and women. You owe it to your family, you owe it to yourself to let this wonderful new tonic build you up. There is no other medicine like it on earth, one dose will convince any one of this. If "Tona Vita" doesn't do more for you than all the other medicines you have ever taken, if it doesn't make you happier and healthier and better in every way, what you pay for it will be returned to you by A. A. Clarke.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant remedy, is another great medicine. It is a splendid family laxative, containing the medicinal properties of rhubarb—nature's own laxative. It will not injure the most delicate constitution and should be used for children above everything else. It is pleasant to the taste.

A. A. Clarke has the Connelville agency for "Tona Vita" and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative.

Value of a Vocabulary Inestimable; A Courier Dictionary Furnishes It.

Attorney—Do you know the de-fendant's reputation for veracity?
Witness—No. It is very good.

Attorney—Do you know what the word veracity means?
Witness—Sure. It is being a good business man.

This crown examination occurred during a trial in a Western State, and the lawyers are laughing about it yet. It would never have occurred had the witness been the possessor of the Courier's Dictionary.

Get a dictionary. You might be called upon as a character witness for a friend any day. You owe it to yourself and your friends to be prepared for such emergencies.

Six consecutive coupons and a small expense bonus will secure the much valued volume for you.

Speaking of lawyers—a well known attorney was overheard telling a friend in a street car that he would not take $1 for the Webster's New Standard Dictionary Illustrated which The Courier presented to him.

No home is a home and no office a real office without a dictionary. When you are unable to tell what a man is talking about you might just as well give up trying to do business. A knowledge of language is essential. When a man increases his vocabulary he has provided an asset greater than money. Money spent, like water that once goes over the mill wheel, does not come back, but a vocabulary may be used in getting the money back, and the money will buy more water.

The Courier's offer, that stands without a parallel, is for a dictionary without $100. It can be obtained with six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of the paper and a small expense bonus.

Hundreds of persons have obtained these dictionaries, and you could not buy one from any one that has one for twice the money if they did not know they could obtain another with six coupons. Even then it is doubtful if you could get it unless the seller had the six coupons ready to get another one.

Many a good clerical position has been lost by failing to spell some word properly. Many an employer has been made to feel like the proverbial "fool in a street car" that he would be corrected by some young fellow who knew. For another 18 cents added to the 30 he feels like the employer might have a Webster's New Standard Dictionary Illustrated at his side and feel at all times like 100 cents on the dollar.

If you have not begun to save the coupon found elsewhere in the paper begin today. Six of them put you in a way to get the dictionary.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, it cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Good Looking TOPCOATS For FALL MOTORING and GENERAL WEAR

Double Faced Coats the Craze At Present - White

Raincoats in Mannish Style Now the Mode
The Hood, a New Trimming Feature.

BY whatever name she may call it—tourist, steamer, motor, or simply plain utility coat—every woman needs in her wardrobe one all-covering, practical yet good looking coat which may be slipped on over frocks of a material too light for an appearance in the street. Such a coat is an inexpressible comfort on bleak, stormy days, even if one never expects to wear it in a motor car or on the deck of an ocean liner, and there are so many evening occasions when it would not be necessary to call a taxi or carriage if one wore the possessor of a long, warm coat sufficiently smart for an evening appearance over a light frock. Women living in the suburbs value such utility coats particularly, but even in town the big, comfortable coat which is more informal and more comfortable than the trim tailored suit of its kind, for usually it may be worn through several successive seasons, and after that will serve for a hack coat for use on rainy days in the motor car or boat, or to look into the trunk at vacation time for rough wear in the country.

A really good looking utility coat may not be picked up for a song. Such coats when made in smart style and of handsome material usually cost a substantial price—unless one is fortunate enough to run across a special bargain at midseason time. But it pays to invest in a really good coat of this sort, for usually it may be worn through several successive seasons, and after that will serve for a hack coat for use on rainy days in the motor car or boat, or to look into the trunk at vacation time for rough wear in the country.

Exaggerated Trimmings Give Smart Style.
The double faced or reversible cloth coats are just now the craze and several coats of this type are illustrated. Many and clever are the ways in which the makers of these big topcoats use the contrasting material to give striking and attractive effects. Hues reverse and collars in shawl, sailor and cape style, enormous patch pockets, wide cuffs and buttons as large as small sauce plates make some of these coats very dashing and youthful in effect, and though some models run up close to the three figure mark it is wonderful what attractive and satisfactory ones are to be had between eighteen and twenty-five dollars.

Slender Lines Insisted On.
All of these coats are cut to give the straight, slender silhouette which fashion insists upon, whether one be stout or thin, tall or short, and the better models in these utility coats are cleverly designed to emphasize slenderness and make even the stout woman look more slight. This is done by tapering the lines of the garment from shoulder to hem, the shoulders being cut on generous, roomy lines, with large armholes and sleeves of good size, while the lower portion of the coat is as narrow as is compatible with comfortable walking. Any tailor will admit that the most difficult thing to achieve in the tailor's art is this tapering effect from shoulder to hip—particularly on a plump figure—and it

Two Tone
Effects are Cleverly Accomplished with Coat Materials

is for this reason that ready made coats are usually so clumsy and ungainly on stout women, the material falling straight from bust to hem in front instead of tapering in to give graceful and smart lines. But the well cut topcoat, with its loose shoulder and big sleeves, is usually becoming to all figures and often in the new coats with fastenings over toward one side, the buttons may be moved a bit one way or the other to give right lines.

A coat with very beautiful lines is the two-tone model illustrated. This coat is not made of reversible cloth, but of two distinct materials, a heavy Scotch mixture of gray and purple threads and broadcloth in a light violet color harmonizing with the coat material. The photograph shows how the violet broadcloth is used in trimmings effect, the lower portion continuing to the very foot of the coat in most graceful manner. This coat fastens far to one side with a single button of dull gray bone. Similar buttons are placed at the back of the waistline. The sleeves of this coat are not into the garment in raglan manner, and not a few of the topcoats for fall show this style of sleeve, though there seems a tendency to get away from this style of sleeve. Some of these "peasant" type and to adopt the ordinary sleeve set into the armhole. All coat sleeves of this type, however, are kept very flat at the top and are entirely without gathers, the line of the shoulder and arm being emphasized as in sleeves of the raglan and "peasant" sort.

Some of the Big Coats Hit in Color.
Most of the reversible coat materials are two tone in effect. That is, the outer side is of a soft, neutral color combining gray or brown with threads of blue, red or green; the reverse side showing a plain shade of the color used in combination. Some of these colorings are exceedingly rich and beautiful. Gray and purple, gray and Delft blue, steel gray and green, leather color and brown are favorite combinations, and there are neutral grays with darker gray tones on the reverse side which are favored by some women who like smart but quiet and conservative effects. Some of the reversible cloths have backs in striped or checked patterns and coats of these materials, made up in informal, ulster style, are much favored for motor and country wear. A coat of this type is pictured, the material being snuff brown blanket cloth with a reverse of slightly lighter brown with crimson stripes. The lines of this coat are excellent, and of course the big collar may be turned up around the throat when desired. The pockets on this coat are enormous—really exaggerated in size—but this very exaggeration makes them undeniably smart. One does not sit down and small belongings into the big pockets, for that would soon spoil the good lines of one's coat. All such trifles are stowed in the reticule or motor bag, which is slung over one shoulder on long excursions. A very smart coat is shown in the Scotch tweed model with buttoned straps across the waistline in front. This coat is a soft gray in tone with flecks of white and black on the surface of the material, and the reverse side is bluish violet, which makes a charming color scheme with the gray outer fabric. The big cape collar at the back is smarter now than the square sailor collar, which has been done to death and is in disfavor with high class makers. Strappings of the gray material, stitched over the violet facing, add an effective touch and three of these straps placed crosswise at both back and front give a new and modern touch. The buttons are the huge affairs now considered correct on these big coats, and are of dull silver set in black wood rims. This coat is double breasted and this manner of cutting the deep cape collar and broad reverse makes it especially dandy warm for autumn motoring and steamer wear.

The Hood Which is Now High in Fashion's Favor.

Once in so often hoods come back into fashion and this season they are according the slope to their periodical pinnacle. As yet hoods are seen only on high class and expensive coats, but very shortly they will drop out, very likely, on dozens of ready-to-wear coats under the twenty dollar mark. Sufficient unto the day, however, is the fashion thereof, and the woman who likes a hooded coat will be safe in buying it, for the style is too graceful to wear itself out all in an instant. The hooded coat illustrated is made of navy blue cloth with a reverse of golden brown—Continental colors—and the reverse fabric is cleverly used in the cape. There are also turned back cuffs of the fawn colored fabric, the buttons, which do not show in the print, are of polished light brown wood in mahogany pink. Such a coat may be worn motoring or on the street over little morning frocks or serge or mohair cut short enough to escape the ground.

Though fewer of the snow white motor coats are seen now than was the case early in the summer, these attractive coats are still worn in the country and look very warm and cozy when slipped on over tennis or golf costumes at the close of an afternoon's play. By sundown, at this season, it grows so chilly in the mountains that the hip length sweater is not enough protection during the homeward spin after a game, and the big blanket coat, with its cozy warmth and roomy proportions, is agreeably comfortable. Some of these coats are in a light wood-brown color, the straight lines and mannish, ulster style being the same; but the snow white coats are the favorites and are of a sturdy prettiness against the out-of-door landscape.

Decussy Coats for Limousine Use.
Many women do not like the weight of the ulster style of coats, though nowadays these big coats are built of material that is amazingly light and soft, considering the warmth it gives. Paris tailors are turning out some stunning long coats made of soft, light broadcloths and serges which may be worn in the limousine or carriage over handsome afternoon costumes in which one drives out to the country or other country resorts for dinner. These coats have a more dressy and formal air than the rough and ready topcoat of blanket or reversible material. A beautiful coat of this character was worn by a woman who came in to the city for the afternoon. It was built of dark green broadcloth of the silkiest, most supple quality—a broadcloth that must have cost a pretty penny—or should one say centime?—the yard and which draped in most graceful, clinging lines about the figure. The coat was loose in cut, but suggested a draped effect, and the wearer's silhouette was very narrow and slim as she stood drawing off her gloves before tea. There were cuffs at least ten inches deep and a hood collar of black satin, the hood being lined with bright crimson silk, which gave tremendous dash to the graceful dark coat. The lining was of white satin and when the coat was removed a pretty little frock of roseate green cloth half lined with black chiffon embroidered with white beads was revealed.

An attractive French coat of lavender serge is pictured today. Strappings of broadcloth in the same color and big buttons of white bone make this lavender coat very dainty and charming. The lines are semi-fitting at the back while the broad cape collar to which are buttoned the wide revers is especially graceful.

Mannish Raincoats for Autumn Storms.

Raincoats grow more and more slightly—not only in style, but in color. There is really no reason why a woman should grab herself in dull colors just because the sky is dreary and tearful, and it is a cheery minded little body who dons a green veil and carries a green silk umbrella when the rain is pouring down with sad persistence. A red veil and umbrella would be even more cheerful, and a red silk petticoat under a lifted skirt would add an enlivening spice of coquetry; yet neither veil, umbrella nor petticoat of cheerful color would be as durable than a black or gray one.

Mannish raincoats are the fad and there are very smart models of tan colored, rubberized fabric in raglan cut. More conservative women will favor waterproofed mohair coats of black or dark blue with hairline of white.

For ink stains the simplest remedy is peroxide, or lemon-salt, or soak in sour milk overnight.

Making the Invalid Comfortable

CONVALESCENT days are tedious days at the best and little attentions and remembrances at this time are quite as much appreciated by the invalid as anxious inquiries during the period of severe illness. There are many little gifts which may be taken to a convalescent as a variation on the eternal monotony of flowers, jellies and broths, and one of the most acceptable of these gifts is a lap blanket or "rug" as the English call such a protection.

The convalescent is usually well supplied with pretty negligees which loving relatives have made ready for the first happy days of "letting up," but rarely is there any dainty lap covering to match the dainty dressing gown, and over the invalid's knees must be spread an ordinary blanket or comfort from the bed, which, besides being heavy and cumbersome, does not match the color scheme of the negligee. Invalids are very sensitive to colors and it is twice as easy to get well rapidly if one possesses the happy consciousness that, instead of being a pitiful wreck, dressed up any old way to receive compassionate visitors, one makes a charming and interesting picture of invalidism. Usually the invalid herself is too weak to make any effort toward beautifying herself, but she appreciates such attempts on the part of those about her.

Dainty lap covers with slippers to match come all ready packed in a portable bag, as shown in the picture, and sometimes these lap covers and slippers come in sets with comfortable and attractive dressing gowns—

all in some delicate color scheme like palest pink or lavender. Pale blue is seldom becoming to a convalescent. It emphasizes the pallor and sharp contours and brings out shadows and hollows under the eyes and in the cheeks. Pink is a better color, but the palest of pinks must be selected and the material of the dressing gown should be exquisitely soft and graceful. Pink cashmere, scalloped by hand, makes a warm and pretty invalid's gown. Handmade gowns are made of pleated chiffon and cream lace. Plenty of lace should fall at sleeve edges and in jacket effect at the front for the emaciated convalescent needs plenty of aid in the way of soft, lace frills at neck and wrists. The lap covering illustrated is made of Oriental silk crepe, with a border of thin pink silk to match, a layer of cotton wadding being placed beneath the silk border, and the whole cover being lined with light flannel between the outer and inner layers of crepe. The slippers are soft and heel-less and are made of the crepe with trimmings of thin pink silk.

Another style of invalid slippers which can be made very easily from fancy Dresden ribbon is pictured. The beauty of these slippers is that they may be donned without stooping and slipped off readily as well. An invalid rarely needs to do more than cross the carpet from chair to lounge and slippers of this sort into which the foot may be slipped are all that is needed. Cover a pair of the felt lined slippers with some delicate shade, sewing the satin firmly to the edge of the sole and a little experimenting with an old piece of muslin will yield a satisfactory pattern for this the portion. The slippers are made of thin silk, matching the sole and a thin layer of cotton is laid between the edges being buttonholed together with silk floss. At the edge the silk is turned back to show the lining—a very ornamental feature of the slippers.

Warm little bed jackets of French flannel or of cashmere are appreciated by the invalid who breakfasts in bed. Such jackets are made without sleeves, the material being folded and cut in the "peasant" style familiar in blouses of the past two seasons, and instead of being sewed up under the arms the material is scalloped and caught together in one or two places with ribbon bows.

A most acceptable gift for the average invalid is a coiffure cap which may be drawn over the hair when visitors are expected, for after a severe illness the hair is usually in a sadly unattractive condition, yet nothing can be done with it until the convalescent has recovered strength enough to go through the ordeal of shampoo, massage and the like.

The coiffure cap may be made of lawn and lace insertions of all over lace, with a pleated lace frill at the edge, or of fine mull or dotted swiss with a lace border. If ribbons are used, they should be of the palest possible pink or lavender.

Slender vases of inexpensive character are always appreciated by the invalid, who seldom has enough receptacles to hold the flowers that are sent to her. It is a pretty notion to carry with one's gift of flowers an inexpensive glass vase in which they may be immediately arranged, and which will remain as a reminder of one's thought after the flowers have faded. Another gift that will please the invalid is a small tablet or pad of good paper with several well sharpened pencils and envelopes which fit the sheets of paper when folded. Most convalescents like to scribble little notes to various friends, though the effort of sitting at a writing desk or table or using ink is quite beyond their slender strength. A package of postals with sharpened pencils is a gift that will give most satisfaction to an invalid.

When visiting an invalid or convalescent friend always sit so that you need not face the light to see you, and in such position that she need not strain head or eyes to look you in the face. Never offer to lean over a sick or weak person and kiss her unless she seems to expect it. The invalid, weakened by long suffering, shrinks in sensitive fear from such a caress, no matter how dearly loved the visitor or how welcome her visit.

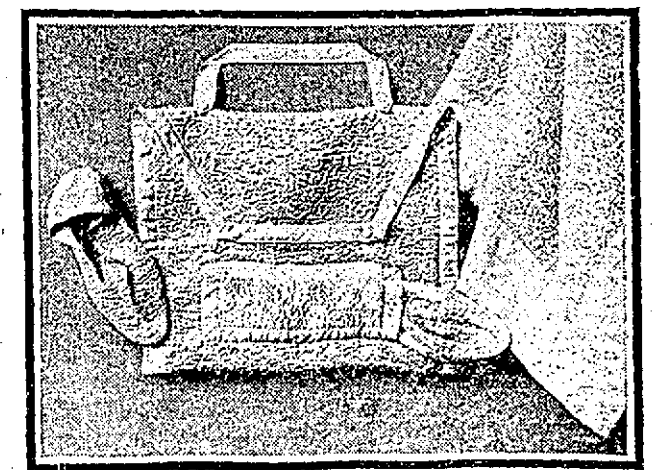

Notes and Novelties.

BATHING SUIT LINGERIE NOW.

DOWN the long pier which stretches out into the Sound from a fashionable yacht club came, the other afternoon, two young women attired in tasteful bathing suits of black satin, with dainty bathing slippers and caps in perfect keeping. They tripped out on the end of the pier, descended the gangway to the float on the surface of the water and, posing gracefully, dived over. And as they dived a swirl of lace whiteness beneath the short satin skirts revealed the presence of most dainty lingerie petticoats beneath the bathing dress. Whether this idea originated with the two young women referred to, or whether it was the forerunner of a coming fashion, is not known; but why not lace petticoats for bathing wear, now that bathing suits have become such fascinating chic affairs?

ELIZABETHAN RUFFS FOR FALL.

THE latest arrival in the neckwear department is a queer looking arrangement which is a cross between a fichu and a chemise. This Elizabethan fichu, as it is called by the salesperson, is made of white silk and comes out over the shoulder like a broad sailor collar, and has ends that reach nearly to the waistline in front. The neck is cut out in a V, and in this V is a standing frill of pleated net. There are wide cuffs of the silk and a girle belt with a pleated frill attached at its lower edge.

The LASH of CIRCUMSTANCE

HARRY IRVING GREENE
Author of "Yosonde of the Wilderness"

"As you perhaps know, I am a professional detective and cases like this are strictly my specialty. I take it for granted that you wish to approach the parties who did this job, and that you would like to recover your money, or as much of it as possible. That being the case I would like to make an arrangement with you. I am in a more favorable position to get your results than are the regular police for a number of reasons. In the first place I am better equipped for it than are the majority of them, both by nature and education. It is a matter of common observation that the smart crook is smarter than the average crook-catcher, and while I don't wish to sound egotistical, I don't believe that the rule holds good in my case. Furthermore, I can mix with ladies and gentlemen among my surroundings, as well as with professional criminals, without betraying myself to either class, which is in itself a considerable advantage, for the criminal can spot the average city policeman, although he be in plain clothes, as readily as you could should he put on a dress suit and enter your drawing room. In addition to that, I am not bound by rules and regulations or the instructions of superiors who may or may not be competent to direct me, and neither am I always looking forward to the hour when it is time for me to go off duty and take my rest. Your city should be paid a few dollars a day for certain hours of work, expects no reward as a general thing, and therefore more or less mechanically performs his work and then goes to his home the same as any other workman. I do not blame him for it, but it illustrates the weakness of the system. In addition to that, he probably has a dozen other somewhat similar affairs in his mind, and his work is more of a general nature than a special character. If he is running along the trail of one criminal and strikes that of another which seems a little warmer, he is likely to be diverted, since all evil deeds are fish in his net. On the other hand, when I take up a case I do it with the expectation of receiving substantial remuneration in case I succeed, and I am not to be diverted by other matters which only indirectly concern me; and neither am I at all particular as to the hour when I shall quit my day's work. These and other facts which will not take the time to mention, added to my natural fitness for the work, have made me successful many times when the regular police force failed. You have lost $40,000, and I make this proposition to you: It will be a case of no cure and no pay, as the doctors put it, and therefore an advantageous arrangement for you. If the regular police got your money back I will charge you nothing for what I may have done in the meantime. Neither will I present you any bill for the capture of the guilty party or parties unless I get some or all of your money back as well. But on all funds that I regain for you I will charge you a 25 per cent. commission. I don't see how anything could be any fairer than that."

"It's Queer About that Key; I Can't Find It!"

Uncle Abner, who had remained quiet during LeDuc's utterances now sat up and began to whimper. "Ten per cent. is plenty enough for any one to charge. I have been robbed enough already. Suppose you should go out and get the money back in 24 hours. Would you have the goodness to charge me $10,000 for a day's work?" LeDuc's lips tightened into a thin smile.

"I certainly should. I am very impudent in some respects, and I should charge you the full price even though the transaction took me only ten minutes. I have tried to emphasize that point as one of the reasons why I will do harder, longer and more intelligent work than the policeman who only gets his $3 a day. But on the other hand, and to balance the scales between us, of course the more I get the more you get. I take it for granted that you would rather get $30,000 back than nothing at all. Also you must remember that there is the contingency that I may fail completely, and in that event I will be out my time, labor and expenses. Then again, I may recover but a small portion of what has been stolen, and in that case my fee will be insignificant and my time practically wasted. I have made my offer and it is the best I will do. You can take it or you can let it alone if you prefer."

"Too much—altogether too much," whined the voice from the sheets. Then an LeDuc, with an indifferent shrug of his shoulders, arose as if to depart, the lean hand of Uncle Abner shot from beneath the coverlet and hooked itself to the tail of his coat. "Very well, if you must take advantage of a sick man, I suppose I will have to submit. I'll be lucky if I don't die in the poorhouse after all, the way everybody imposes upon me." That LeDuc was half inclined then and there to throw up the proposition in disgust I could tell by the curl of his lip, but after a second of reflection he turned to me with a little smile which told me that he had made his allowance for the nature of the man with whom he was dealing.

"Very well. Sign this agreement then," he commanded shortly, as he handed the quibbler a paper and a fountain pen. Carefully Uncle Abner ran his colorless eyes over the printed form, inserted the necessary words and figures and affixed his signature. LeDuc thrust it into his pocket, and first having his new client repeat what he had previously told the police, turned his attention to the room without comment upon the statement. The safe he examined with intense attention to detail. The hole that had been drilled in the combination occupied his attention for at least ten minutes in itself. He measured it, peered into it as a terrier peers into a rat hole, examined it by the aid of a magnifying glass and actually smiled at it. The shattered pieces of lock he examined slowly, pondering over them for many minutes as he slowly turned them around and around in his hands. As for the room itself, the floor and the walls, he went over them inch by inch, and having at last decided that took asked me to show him the closet in which I had found the old man. In the hallway I saw him suddenly stoop and pick up some small object which he thrust hurriedly into his pocket without showing it to me. Inside and out we went over the house for a full hour, and then at his suggestion returned to the room where we sat ourselves. I asked him if he had discovered anything.

"Yes. The explosion occurred at 22 minutes past three," he replied, as he blew a long cloud of smoke. I demanded that he tell me how he knew that.

"Simply because the clock on the mantle stopped at that hour. I gave it a little shake when I noticed that it had stopped and it started up again as merrily as you please, so I guess the concussion is what put it out of business temporarily," he smiled. Simple and obvious as this fact had been I had not noticed it in my survey of the room, and not particularly flattered at my own lack of discernment. I agreed that his explanation was probably correct. He seemed to be thinking intently for a while after that and I did not disturb him, but presently he turned to me.

"In getting at the roots of a case like this, one way of simplifying it is by the process of elimination—that is to say, by the weeding out of those persons and circumstances which at first immediately surrounding the affair could not in the nature of things be connected with it. By doing this you are often able to narrow the field of your search and thereby secure greater concentration. I believe that you can help me considerably in this matter if you will frankly answer all questions I may ask you feeling perfectly free to volunteer anything that may occur to you as you proceed. First of all, was your uncle in the habit of keeping large sums of money in the safe?" I shook my head.

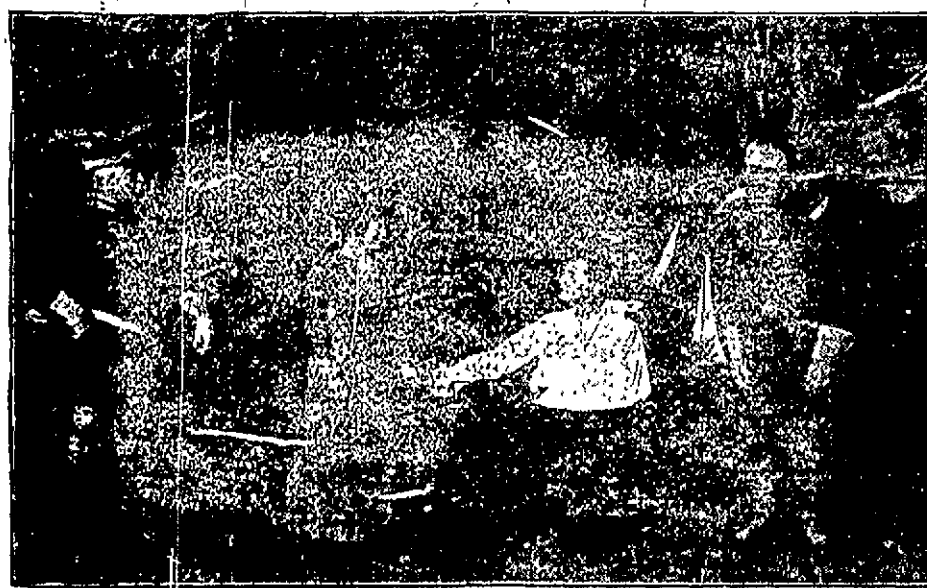

"It very seldom happened. Perhaps once or twice a year only, and then merely because the cash was received out of banking hours. The rest of the time it would not be worth bothering."

"Who knew of this particular amount being there at this particular time?"

"No one as far as I know except Uncle Abner, of course, my cousin, Drueo Halliday, and myself. Uncle Abner says he did not tell Mrs. Tebbets, she denies all knowledge of it and I am inclined to believe that that settles that."

"It would so seem. And what kind of a man does Drueo happen to be?" I hesitated, endeavoring to choose my words with circumspection before answering a question which enhanced so many qualifying and modifying phrases.

put Bruce in an unfavorable light, and it is not a pleasant task for one to be compelled to cast suspicion, even by inference, upon a life-long friend, especially when the friend is of his own blood. Yet a serious crime had been committed against both society at large and another of my kinsmen in particular, and should I conceal any essential fact that I knew and LeDuc discover that I had done so, it would put me in the miserable plight before Uncle Abner as having tried to shield some one and thus acted against him in the recovery of at least a portion of what had been pilfered from him. I did not for an instant believe that Bruce would even contemplate such an act, even though standing blindfold against the wall of financial despair, yet certainly there were things which in justice to everybody concerned he should explain; and while I did not doubt that he could do so without difficulty, I disliked exceedingly to speak against him.

LeDuc sat quietly throughout my mental colloquy, eyeing me keenly. That my hesitancy in answering was unnoted I did not for a moment flatter myself, for as well might one expect the fox to make a movement of the cornered hare. "There seems to be something disagreeable in your mind. Perhaps you had better out with it," he suggested at length. "Remember that I am asking you, as a good citizen, to help me in this matter, and am taking you into my confidence. I therefore expect you to assist me to the fullest extent of your powers, regardless of whom it may help or hurt; always bearing in mind that no innocent man need be afraid. Furthermore, you are to trust me not to give any information you may convey to me any more publicity than the exigencies of the case demand. What is it you are keeping from me now?"

"You have asked me as to my cousin's financial condition, and under my protest and your promise I will say this," I returned slowly. "He was in a miserable fix through losses on the exchange and came to Uncle Abner yesterday for a loan. Uncle Abner only grinned at him, as Bruce should have had some sense enough before-hand to know he was asking for a loan Bruce afterward was way down on his luck and fairly desperate. He knew that Uncle had the money in the house, because he was the one who called my attention to that fact, saying to me: 'My God, I must get hold of $10,000 some way.' He then left me. When I saw him again he appeared to have been drinking. I put him in a carriage to get him out of sight and he was driven away, where I don't know, for I have not seen him since. That is all I know about that phase of the matter." My companion was following my every word and action with the intention of a watching lynx, and when I had finished pouncing upon my last and qualifying words instantly.

"You say that is all you know about that phase of the matter. Very good. But what else do you know?" Driven fairly into a corner I answered desperately:

"I know he had a key to the house. While I was sitting with him at the interview I have just mentioned he became angry at the thought of Uncle's refusal to assist him, and struck the table several times with some small metallic object which he had tightly clenched in his hand. The familiar appearance of the object immediately attracted my attention and I managed to see enough of it to know that it was a key to this place. It was somewhat surprised, not knowing how he had come into possession of it; but thinking it was his own business I did not mention it to him ignorance of geography is weird and wonderful. Thus speaks Irene Warfield, who will be seen in the leading role of "Beverly" at the Soisson theatre, matinee and night, Saturday, August 19. "I had an errand which took me down to the neighborhood of Battery Park," continued Miss Warfield, "and, as I was not acquainted in that neighborhood, I sought the advice of a guardian of the law, who directed me aright, and then said: 'An it's a stranger ye are in the city Miss?'"

"Not exactly," I replied, "I know some parts of the city very well but my home is in California."

"California?" said he, "Sure what State is that in?"

"I explained that California was a State in itself."

"I know that," said the bluecoat, "but what city is it near?"

"I told him it was somewhere between Los Angeles and San Francisco."

"Oh! Now I know where it is!" said the copper. "I have a brother living out there."

"Indeed—and where does your brother live?"

"In Cincinnati," answered the policeman.

be good enough to let me have yours for a few moments?" Clara moved nervously.

TOWN COUNCIL IN REGULAR SESSION.

Sewer Matters Held Attention of Members for an Hour.

WEST SIDERS COMPLAIN

Of Sewer of John Duggan's Which They Ask the Borough to Buy in Order to Give Them Relief—Paying Payment That Was Overlooked.

Town Council was in session an hour last evening. After the laying of a 100 foot sewer to connect a "dead end" on Gibson avenue with the main street pipe was authorized a long discussion followed the reading of a petition calling attention to the fact that John Duggan's private sewer on Seventh street, West Side, is poorly constructed and unsanitary; the petitioners asking Council for relief.

Councilman Friel said that Council could not take any action in the matter whatever. He said the complaining property owners should go to Duggan and not to the Council about the matter. The petitioners asked that if Duggan refused to remedy matters, Council should buy the sewer.

Councilman W. A. Bishop asked why the borough should do anything for the West Side in regard to sewer matters when no sewer tax was paid by the residents of that section. This brought Councilman Lepley to his feet with the declaration that while the West Siders pay no sewer tax, they do pay 75 cents for every front foot of property in exchange for the privilege of tapping. The petition was not acted upon.

Councilman William McCormick stated that he had neglected to bring a receipt he wished to present to Council showing that E. L. Marletta had paid a paving claim of $216.61 although there was yet a lien against his property. The receipt was from Borough Treasurer I. W. Rutter. It was believed that Solicitors Higbee and Goldsmith had overlooked the matter. Clerk Bixler confirmed the statement that the records show payment had been made. McCormick moved that the Borough Solicitors be instructed to have the lien withdrawn but Friel objected. "Refer it to the Finance Committee," he said.

McCormick argued that if the account had been paid that was all there was to it and Friel argued that his idea would be merely putting the matter through in the proper form and by so amending McCormick's motion. President Millard put the amendment. Five Councilmen arose for and against it. Millard then deciding in favor of the amendment. He then put the original motion, instead of the motion as amended, and it was lost. The motion, as amended, has never been put, the President deciding that it was not necessary as the Friel amendment carried and McCormick's original motion was lost.

All the harrowing details of three previous meetings were recited when Clerk A. O. Bixler read the minutes of those sessions. An unfeeling Councilman at the first August meeting had the reading of these minutes deferred with the result that the members presided freely during the reading of the minutes last evening. Clerk Bixler did have some verbiage and refrained from repeating the list of bills that were passed at the meeting previous.

The members present were President James D. Millard, S. L. Brant, T. J. Brennan, Frank Trol, W. A. Bishop, C. M. Stoner, S. B. Decker, Simon Hay, J. T. Heitzel, B. L. Berg, William McCormick and Solomon Lepley. It was Councilman Brant's first appearance since he was stabbed two weeks ago.

Chairman H. C. Hays of the Finance Committee was not present and nothing was done on finances. Chairman Hays of the Street Committee presented the matter of vacating an alley from Morrell avenue. The chairman made no report. Councilman Lepley declared the alley was of no benefit now, but this might not apply in the future. The matter was allowed to pass without action.

Councilman Lepley complained about the condition Eighth street was left by contractors moving houses and moved that they put the street into good condition. The clerk was directed to notify the contractors to repair the street.

S. B. Decker reported bad sidewalks on Fairview avenue in front of the Hunter and Higbee properties. Both are brick walks. The clerk was directed to notify the owners to have these repaired. Henry Welles's property on Pittsburgh street and North alley were also reported, the latter alley to have been the fault of the gas company.

The ghost of Francis avenue was brought up by B. L. Berg but nothing was done. The session's will also be told of the walk in front of their building near the Young House. The alley between the First National Bank and J. L. Stader's property was likewise reported.

HEALTH AND FOOD.

A Doctor's Idea of a Perfectly Balanced All Year Round Diet.

That every one is more or less susceptible to tubercular trouble is a matter on which all old fashioned medical authorities are agreed. They tell us that we may pass through a phase and out again without knowing it. According to Dr. T. X. Hull in the Dietetic Gazette, there is only one thing very certain, and that is that if we keep in good health or adapt ourselves to a perfectly balanced diet the danger is slight.

He advocates a reduction of vegetable food, relying more upon butter, meat and nuts. Here, of course, one has to face the increased danger of tubercular meat, itself probably a large contributory cause of consumption. This is Dr. Hull's idea of a perfectly balanced diet, calculated to keep the average individual in perfect health all the year round: The basis for the diet is found in meat, eggs, milk, butter, bread, potatoes and fruit. It consists daily of two quarts of milk, five eggs, four ounces of beef, one and one-half ounces of butter, two ounces of nuts (pecan), four ounces of bread, three ounces each of rice, peas and oatmeal, one ounce sugar, one ounce raisins, one apple and one orange.

STORY OF A MUD HEN.

And the Man Who Tried to Shoot or Drown the Bird.

"It is a mighty hard thing to down a mud hen," said a Portland official. "Every one knows this homely bird, so clever that it can dodge the flash of a gun, making it very hard to kill if any one ever wanted to kill one." "A friend of mine who was a great hunter, but not acquainted with the mud hen, was out hunting on the Columbia sloughs some years ago when he saw what he thought was some kind of duck floating on the water. He aimed his shotgun and fired, but the bird dived as the gun was discharged, and the shot struck the water where the bird had been a moment before. As the smoke cleared away the hunter saw the bird come to the surface, and he gave it the other barrel, with the same result.

"His obstinacy was now aroused, and he determined to kill that bird before he left the place. He shot away every round of ammunition he had, but the bird dodged every one and still floated in the same spot. In great disgust my friend sat down on the bank and lit his pipe. At the first puff of smoke the bird dived again, and this gave him his inspiration. "To make a short story, he smoked up all his tobacco in an effort to drown the mud hen, but when darkness fell and he started for home the bird was still floating in the same old spot."—Portland Oregonian.

Little Stranger First Sees Light On the River Bridge at Monessen.

Special to The Courier.

MONESSEN, Aug. 16.—Born to Mrs. John Monessen Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the center of the Lock Four bridge, an eight-pound daughter. The mother and child are reported to be doing well. Neither Washington nor Westmoreland county can claim the land of the birthright of this heir and none need advance the assertion that it's a son of the soil for it was born right in the center of the big structure Sunday afternoon, August 13, at 4 o'clock.

This is a story stranger than many in fiction. The mother of the babe in company with a three year old son was returning from a five month visit to her native country across the ocean. She arrived at Lock Four a few minutes before 4 o'clock and had climbed the stairs and was hastily traveling to her home on Linden avenue, Monessen, when she was taken ill.

While she sat in the middle of the big structure she waved a sign of distress to a Sioux woman at Wretton who arrived on the scene, and by the assistance of a small boy, Dr. Farquhar was summoned, but when he got to the woman had the baby in her arms and was ready to continue her journey home. The nurse was discharged and the doctor turned his car.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Connellsville Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage. DANGER SIGNAL No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Connellsville proof. John B. Schum, 113 W. Apple St., Connellsville, Pa., says: "About twelve years ago I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and the results obtained at that time gave me high opinion of the remedy. I am always glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from backache or any other trouble, due to disordered kidneys." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
